

AARP Channels Jade Helm 15 False Flag

This will be just a very brief update to my last video (since removed by YouTube) about this amazing AARP commercial, and its hidden references to the Jade Helm military operation, and quite a few of you, my subscribers pointed out to me how the color, jade green is featured in this advertisement, and my web manager from Australia sent me this picture, where you can see it quite clearly and she labelled all of the jade green colors.

Now, we've already discussed how the lamp has a helm on it, a ship's helm, and of course the color green is to the left, the helm is to the right and that's where you get the Jade Helm. Take a closer look at those knitting needles. Notice they are crossed. They are also in jade green, very reminiscent of the crossed arrows on the jade helm logo. And it's also especially interesting the way the girl's arm is crooked in front of her. It's quite an unusual pose, and I think her forearm is meant to indicate the Latin Roman numeral V, which is the number 5. I don't think that's accidental either.

This operation Jade Helm 15 is a spiritual attack on Mary, and Mary's number in Bible prophecy is of course, the number 5. So, please continue letting me know what you see in this AARP commercial, because it's obvious what they are doing, and I wouldn't be surprised if they take this video down very shortly.

AARP commercial

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jT6imlqaCQs>